

Tom's Daily

Sat. 11 May, 2013 – Bruges

REPORTER REPORTING

It has proven to be a very suspenseful day today, with a lot of surprising results! In Open1 division's power pools, we had a lot of triangle results, withholding The Belgian teams Mooncatchers and Jetset from quarters, even though they beat respectively Cobra Kai and Gentle. Those two teams did continue into quarters, but lost them to Ragnarok and Freespeed. Ragnarok seems to be a serious contender for the TT victory, this year. Cobra Kai lost their quarter, and will not be fighting for their third TT trophee. After having some trouble in the first pools, FAB and CUSB La Fotta cruised through power pools and quarters. It has been some years since La Fotta reached finals. Can they get there again this year? They will have to beat Freespeed first in the semi's. The other semi is FAB – Ragnarok. Be there or be square!

In the Open2 division, Last year's finalists BAF and Breizh didn't make it to the semi's. Diabolic Heaven, who won TT11, play the first semi against CUSB zero 51, the other semi is Sun vs Revoltion'air

CUSB from Bologna has a team in semi's in every division. In the ladies division, CUSB Shout will take on TILT, who had a very convincing win over the German U23. Long time TT veterans Yaka will play against Nice Bristols. Both teams also convincingly won their quarter-finals.

WHERE TO WATCH?

We're getting near to the closing stage of this tournament. Hard to say which games will be the most exciting, because probably, they will all be close games. Field 1 is the place to be though, hosting both Open1 semi's and all division's finals. So, if you played your games, get some Zotjes, some tasty waffles, a pita and a watertight canvas, and find yourself a good spot behind the supporter lines around field 1.

TT'S 'ZOTJES' CHALLENGE

At 6.30 PM yesterday, we counted that you have drunk 690 litres of Brugse Zot. That's over two thirds towards the new record!

HERMAN'S HAIKUS

Nice to have one in your hand.
Get slapped hard when dropped.

HOW TO ORGANISE A GREAT TOURNEY LIKE TT

It takes more than a couple of teams, a field and some luck to get a successful tourney running. Some hints on what to do to make your tourney greater than ever might come in handy.

1. Offer some Belgian beers. Brugse Zot, for example...

2. Get a DJ. Drinking beers in silence is no fun at all.

3. Drinking is even more fun when you don't have to pay for it, so organise a reception, for instance.

4. To be able to give away free drinks, you need partners to pay for these niceties.
5. After drinking (free) beers, you and your kids can go and have some fun so definitely hire a bouncing castle.

6. To promote your event, get yourself some banners around the fields, as you can see.
7. To really promote your event on a large scale, hire Get Horizontal.

8. Get yourself organised.

9. Make clear to others that you're organised.

10. You might think that this is all too much of a hassle, so if all else fails, you should hire TT's legendary TD: Glenn, a.k.a. Sikken! Big up for him to get this all done!

THE WEATHER FOR TODAY

You really don't want to know... Look outside. We hope you at least enjoyed the sunshine on Thursday and Friday!

GET YOUR STUFF BACK!

You lost something? Don't panic yet. Chances are that it has been brought back to the lost and found box next to the DJ-booth. If you lost your phone or keys, check the helpdesk.
